Course Overview

I. Course Catalog Description

COUN 674G: Introduction to Addictions (3 credit hours)

An introduction to theories of addiction and substance abuse and the impact upon society, families and the individual. Treatment approaches will be explored. Prerequisite: Grade of “B” or better in COUN 641G, COUN 656G, and COUN 664G.

II. Rationale

The range of addictions (e.g., substance-based, gaming, sexual), their etiology, and their impact are increasingly recognized across a number of counseling contexts in schools and the community at large. Counselors need to understand addictions, particularly for prevention, treatment, and in the context of co-occurring conditions to maximize their effectiveness.

III. Credit Hour Statement

This course is worth three credit hours. During a week you should expect to do an average of 450 minutes of work on this course. This may include, but is not limited to, viewing video lectures, reading, written assignments, essays, discussion boards, study for examinations and quizzes, and other tasks as described in this syllabus. The time to complete these tasks is an average that represents the typical amount of time a student can expect to commit. Times may vary by the student.

IV. Proficiencies for Counselors

Counselors-in-training must master proficiencies from two major sources: local state laws pertaining to counselor licensure and certification and the standards developed by the Council for the Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP). ### Detailed Descriptions

A. Quizzes (15 points each x 13)

195 points

The chapter quizzes come from the van Wormer and Davis textbook. You are expected to complete each quiz as you finish reading a chapter. The quiz on the reading is due on Sunday (11:59 PM CST) the week the reading is assigned. The system will lock quizzes at that time, which means that incomplete quizzes will be submitted automatically. Because you have at least a week to complete each quiz, I will not re-open quizzes after the due date has passed.

The quizzes are open-book. You are allowed two untimed attempts, and I will take the higher of the two scores. This system is designed to reward timely reading and revisiting the material.

B. Discussion Postings (10 points each x 10)      100 points

Discussions are designed to engage your thinking about the readings and to stimulate interaction with other students. A series of case studies and discussion questions pertaining to assigned chapters or topics will be posted on Blackboard. Post at least two significant responses to each discussion question, reflecting your understanding of the material. The first response for each topic will be to the original statement or question, while other responses will elaborate upon colleagues' reflections or comments. All responses for the week will be due Sunday (11:59 p.m. Central Time) on the week after they are assigned. Before responding, it will be important to thoughtfully read the appropriate material. Points will be given for:

- Timely contributions
- Correct English usage, grammar, and spelling
- Offering up ideas or resources and inviting a critique of them
- Asking challenging questions
- Articulating, explaining and supporting positions on ideas
- Citing relevant resources to validate points
- Exploring and supporting issues by adding explanations and examples
- Reflecting on and re-evaluating personal opinions
- Offering a critique, challenging, discussing and expanding ideas of others
- Negotiating interpretations, definitions, and meanings
- Summarizing previous contributions and asking the next question
- Proposing actions based on ideas that have been developed

C. Definition and Etiology Paper                      100 points

What is an addiction? In 2-4 pages, write a paper describing your understanding of the nature of addictions and how they develop. The content should be based on the first two chapters of the text. Papers should follow APA format and include at least two peer-reviewed professional references within the last five years other than your text.

D. Abstinence Project                                      100 points

Students will participate in an abstinence project for the duration of the course in which they abstain from something desirable and monitor their physical, social, emotional, psychological, and spiritual reactions. Students may consider an activity or substance that

1) is least in line with their wellness goals,

2) they use to cope or self-soothe, and/or

3) has produced negative or unwanted consequences in their lives. Examples include: alcohol, nicotine, caffeine, social media, sugar, television/Netflix, texting, swearing, internet, etc. Students should choose two individuals (not from class) to serve as support people to help maintain abstinence goals.

Goodbye Letter: After determining the substance/activity that you will abstain from this semester, draft a 1-2 page letter (do not include your name) in which you say "goodbye." In the letter, describe your relationship with the substance/activity up to this point. Address what you like about your substance/activity; how you consider it a friend; what the substance/activity does for you; in what ways the substance/activity controls you; what using the substance or engaging in the activity has cost you; what you do not like about your substance/activity; how you consider it an enemy; and a creative salutation at the end (example: Sincerely Yours, Fed Up with Sugar); remember, do not include your actual name. Your letter will be read by a peer in the class. Please bring a hard copy of your letter to class on the date specified in the course schedule. (Due: Jan 29th)

Journal Entries

Students are required to keep a journal in which they log their experiences during the project, with at least one entry per week [about 1 paragraph; total of 12 entries], but more entries are recommended. Students may choose from a variety of formats to capture their experiences; all entries need to be dated and will need to be turned in on Brightspace (photos/photocopies are acceptable) by the due date on the calendar.

Final Abstinence Reflection At the conclusion of the semester, students will review their journal entries, reflect on their experiences: including relapses (or urges to relapse), replacement activities/substances, salient emotions, thoughts, and behaviors related to their abstinence, response of others' in their lives to their abstinence (enabling or supporting), what they learned about themselves, and how this project has impacted their conceptualization of those with addiction. Think about how you came to the decision pertaining to what you would abstain from this semester, initial abstinence experiences, mid-semester abstinence experiences, end of semester abstinence experiences, and overall themes/patterns as you progressed through the project. Students have two options for submitting a reflection of experiences: an expressive arts project or final narrative paper

E. Addiction in Children and Adolescents      100 points

In a two-to-three-page paper, describe the special risks that addictions hold for children and adolescents. Address both the effects of having an addiction and being in a family system where a member has an addiction. Papers should follow APA format and include at least two peer-reviewed professional references other than your text.

F. Instrument Critique 100 points

Compare and contrast two of the instruments described in chapter 7 of the van Wormer text in paragraph form. At least one full paragraph should be devoted to noting similarities, at least one full paragraph should be devoted to contrasting differences, and at least one full paragraph should be devoted to making and supporting a recommendation for one instrument over the other. The entire exercise should be two to four pages, not including the title page or references.

G. Trauma, Abilities, and Diagnoses Paper 200 points

Addictions and addictive behaviors are often exacerbated by traumatic events, changes in ability within a person, or co-occurring social or mental health conditions. In a three to five page paper, explore some of the issues that may arise when these factors are present. What are some possible approaches that counselors might use in a setting associated with your specialization?

Please include at least five peer-reviewed professional references in addition to your text and other class materials. To receive full credit, the paper must be written and formatted in correct APA 7 style. This includes font, margins, spacing, capitalization, indentation, page numbers, headers, citations, references, and properly removing the extra space between paragraphs inserted by Microsoft Word and other programs. Please refer to the APA 7 manual for details and examples. Papers should consist of at least five full pages of content, which does not include title, abstract, or reference pages. Papers may contain more than five full pages of content.

H. Addictions and Identifiers 100 points

In a two-to-three-page paper, describe how addictions intersect demographic, identity, social, and cultural factors. At a minimum, the paper should address race and ethnicity, geography, spirituality, gender and sexuality, age and accessibility, class and socioeconomic variables. Papers should follow APA format and include at least two peer-reviewed professional references other than your text.

I. Resource List 75 points

Compile a list of local counseling services and related resources for prevention and intervention of addictions-related conditions. Please remember to provide resources for family members in addition to the identified client. Please report the list in table form with these column headers:

Name/Type of Service	Service Category	Name of Contact	Services Provided	Qualification to Receive Services	Phone Number	Street Address	Email Address or Website

Policies

XI. Course Policies

- Student Diversity and Confidentiality

The courses in this program are not always lecture courses. Rather, the program is sometimes reliant upon interactions, and these may bring differing perspectives to light. As a class, we may not agree on all the issues or come to a single understanding on any subject. There are, however, key elements of the material that we, as a faculty preparing professional counselors, will expect you to be able to explain and hold a conversation about—even if, as individuals, we hold differing and/or contradictory opinions about that element/issue. In that vein, everyone is expected to think about the role of oppression, power, and privilege, as well as their own assumptions surrounding issues of sexism, racism, heterosexism, classism, ageism, genderism, and other forces of inequality/oppression that may be discussed throughout the program and individual courses. It is crucial that we all remain respectful, considerate, and willing to hear each other's opinions, thoughts, and feelings while maintaining awareness of the systems of oppression/privilege that may be influencing our experiences and beliefs. It is also crucial that we cultivate an atmosphere of safety wherein people can give and receive feedback on how they were heard/perceived or how the dynamics of power and privilege are at work in the classroom, with clients, and during supervision. It is also important that we keep in mind how our beliefs may be related to or in conflict with the codes of ethics and values of the profession of counseling. Finally, we occasionally deal with very personal and sensitive matters. Please show respect for your classmates by keeping confidential any personal information revealed during class time or supervision. If you are concerned about the welfare of a classmate, please contact a faculty member immediately.

- Attendance

Regular attendance is expected. For the purposes of online asynchronous courses, a student will be considered to be in attendance in an online class when the individual 1) participates in online discussions or activities about academic matters; or 2) initiates contact with faculty to ask questions about subject studies; or 3) completes assignments; or 4) takes tests. Logging into an online course without active participation does not constitute attendance. Please contact your instructor if you need to miss.

By default, University policy allows a student to miss 1/16th of class meetings for sanctioned purposes. This translates into a single class for most long-semester graduate courses. The full list of sanctioned purposes is in the University policy (<https://policies.truman.edu/policylibrary/attendance-policy/>) but includes "health related absences for which valid documentation is presented" and "absences covered by Truman's non-discrimination policy (e.g. special religious observances, military commitments)." Absences related to accommodations will be handled in conjunction with appropriate University offices. Individual instructors may set course consequences for additional absences and for unsanctioned absences.

Students should notify instructors of an anticipated absence in writing both during the free add/drop period and prior to the actual absence. Students should notify instructors of an unanticipated absence in writing as early as possible. Absent students remain responsible for meeting the assignment deadlines stated in the syllabus and should work with the instructor to complete any in-class exercises "within a reasonable length of time". Please note that accreditation expectations, particularly related to Practicum and Internship, must still be met to earn credit in those courses.

- Netiquette, Civil Dialog, and Professional Communication

Greenidge (2016) provides recommended rules of etiquette for online communications (netiquette). Among the recommendations for written communication such as emails and discussion posts:

- respect others and the opinions of others
- be polite
- refrain from writing in ALL UPPERCASE, as this conveys dissatisfaction and anger
- revise before submitting to ensure clear communication
- avoid acronyms, internet lingo, and text speak (e.g., BTW, idk, l8r) to reduce confusion
- write concisely and clearly, using short paragraphs to increase readability
- identify sources
- contribute substantial responses
- attend to language, since readers lack the benefit of nonverbal cues; clarify when needed, and pause before responding, if another's communication comes across as insensitive or offensive

Greenidge, W. (2016). Interacting productively with faculty and peers. In C. J. Sheperis & R. J. Davis (Eds.), Online counselor education: A guide for students (1st ed., pp. 129-150). Sage.

- Academic Honesty

Students are expected to exhibit honesty in their academic and professional work. Examples include proper attribution of sources, accurate reporting of clinical hours attained and research results, avoiding misrepresentation, and seeking instructor permission before reusing work submitted for another class, collaborating on assignments, or disclosing test contents. Students are also expected adhere to the American Counseling Association Code of Ethics.

- Informed Consent Statement for Counseling Courses

Faculty members are dedicated to the educational, personal, and professional growth and development of our students. Faculty members are in a unique position as both instructors who assess students' academic skills and members of the counseling profession with an ethical obligation to the profession, clients, and the public at large. In both of these roles, it is the faculty's responsibility to evaluate student competencies within the realm of professional counseling and to address any concerns regarding students' professional competence. As such please be aware of the following:

- The counseling profession encourages counselors to fully integrate their own personal attributes and identity, as well as their strengths and weaknesses, into therapeutic processes. Therefore, self-awareness is critical because this knowledge relates to being an effective counselor.
- There will be an emphasis in many courses on self-awareness/exploration, as well as giving feedback to peers. Although uncomfortable at times, we encourage students to be open to self-exploration, since we frequently ask clients to do so.
- At times, class may include experiential and self-awareness exercises. It is important to distinguish between sharing one's emotional reactions to such experiential class activities and revealing information about one's personal history. Self-disclosure of personal history is not required in order to successfully pass any course; however, students may be expected to share their reactions to experiential activities.
- Self-disclosures will not be used as a basis for grading in any course. However, should a student disclose information indicating impairment or the potential for harm to clients, the faculty member may take appropriate action in accordance with the American Counseling Association's Code of Ethics (2014).

- Students often experience personal growth as they progress through the program. However, the courses are not meant to be a means of personal therapy. The focus in classes is on self-awareness and the enhancement and growth of necessary counselor skills.
- Please be aware that, although all instructors strive to create a safe environment for any personal disclosures, we cannot guarantee that other students will maintain the confidentiality of any such disclosures that are made.
- It is each student's responsibility to determine an appropriate level of self-disclosure (i.e. the content and depth of personal information that you share) in experiential learning activities.
- Students are expected to adhere to the American Counseling Association's Code of Ethics (2014) in classwork and interactions with clients, classmates, colleagues, supervisors, and faculty.

(This statement is slightly modified from a parallel statement at The University of Texas at Tyler.)

- Counseling Program Evaluation, Retention, Remediation, and Dismissal Policy

Faculty, training staff, supervisors, and administrators of the Counseling program at Truman State University have a professional, ethical, and potentially legal obligation to: (a) establish criteria and methods through which aspects of competence other than, and in addition to, a student-trainee's knowledge or skills may be assessed (including, but not limited to, emotional stability and well-being, interpersonal skills, professional development, and personal fitness for practice); and, (b) ensure, insofar as possible, that the student-trainees who complete our programs are competent to manage future relationships (e.g., client, collegial, professional, public, scholarly, supervisory, teaching) in an effective and appropriate manner. Because of this commitment, and within the parameters of our administrative authority, our faculty, training staff, supervisors, and administrators strive not to advance, recommend, or graduate students or trainees with demonstrable problems (e.g., cognitive, emotional, psychological, interpersonal, technical, and ethical) that may interfere with professional competence to other programs, the profession, employers, or the public at large.

As such, within a developmental framework, and with due regard for the inherent power difference between students and faculty, students and trainees should know that the faculty, training staff, and supervisors of our programs will evaluate their competence in areas other than, and in addition to, coursework, seminars, scholarship, or related program requirements. These evaluative areas include, but are not limited to, demonstration of sufficient: (a) interpersonal and professional competence (e.g., the ways in which student trainees relate to clients, peers, faculty, allied professionals, the public, and individuals from diverse backgrounds or histories); (b) self-awareness, self-reflection, and self-evaluation (e.g., knowledge of the content and potential impact of one's own beliefs and values on clients, peers, faculty, allied professionals, the public, and individuals from diverse backgrounds or histories); (c) openness to processes of supervision (e.g., the ability and willingness to explore issues that either interfere with the appropriate provision of care or impede professional development or functioning); and (d) resolution of issues or problems that interfere with professional development or functioning in a satisfactory manner (e.g., by responding constructively to feedback from supervisors or program faculty; by the successful completion of remediation plans; by participating in personal counseling/therapy in order to resolve issues or problems). [Slightly modified from The University of Texas at Tyler version of the Comprehensive Evaluation of Student-Trainee Competence in Professional Psychology Programs statement developed by the Student Competence Task Force of the APA Council of Chairs of Training Councils (CCTC), (<http://www.apa.org/ed/graduate/cctc.html>), approved March 25, 2004.

Evaluating student fitness and performance

Members of the faculty, using professional judgment, continuously evaluate each student's fitness and performance. Students receive information related to their fitness and performance from faculty members, their advisors, and their supervisors. The criteria used by the faculty to make such judgments include instructor's observations of course performance, evaluations of students' performances in simulated practice situations, supervisors' evaluations of students' performances, and the American Counseling Association's Code of Ethics (2014). Students are formally evaluated at least annually by the program faculty.

Students who are not making satisfactory progress or who are not meeting program standards should consider withdrawing from the program. In this context, the term "unsatisfactory progress in the program" refers to an academic judgment made regarding the student's fitness and performance. It is a determination that the student has failed to meet academic, ethical, and/or professional standards.

(This is slightly modified from a parallel statement at The University of Texas at Tyler.)

Minimum grade requirements

All Truman State University graduate programs, including Counseling, have minimum grade requirements related to continued enrollment, academic probation, academic suspension, and graduation. These include an expectation of an overall GPA of 3.00 or higher; the ability to retake one (1) course in which a grade of "C", "D", or "F" was earned; and all grades earned at Truman counting in GPA calculations, whether repeated or not (Please see the 2024-2025 Catalog (<http://catalog.truman.edu/content.php?catoid=25&navoid=1526>) for additional information). In addition, certain courses, including Practicum and Internship, require minimum grades in specific preceding courses.

Regardless of GPA, no more than 2 grades of "C" may count toward degree requirements. No grade below "C" may count. Please note that some states require grades of "B" or better in every class for applicants to be licensed.

The University-wide attendance policy can be viewed at http://catalog.truman.edu/content.php?catoid=25&navoid=1518#Attendance\_Policy.

- Substantive Engagement

Truman policy and federal regulations require that students demonstrate that they are academically engaged in the courses they take. You are required to meet this requirement within the first calendar week of the semester, beginning at 12:00 am on Monday {Insert date} and ending 11:59 pm Saturday {Insert date}. Failure to do so, or to provide an explanation of an extenuating circumstance by that date and time will result in your removal from the course. Under certain circumstances, removal could impact your scholarship eligibility or financial aid. For the purposes of this class, establishing academic engagement requires, at a minimum, {Insert assignment you need them to complete}.

- Emergency Procedures

In each classroom on campus, there is a poster of emergency procedures explaining best practices in the event of an active shooter/hostile intruder, fire, severe weather, bomb threat, power outage, and medical emergency. This poster is also available as a PDF at this link: <http://police.truman.edu/files/2015/12/Emergency-Procedures.pdf>.

Students should be aware of the classroom environment and note the exits for the room and building. For more detailed information about emergency procedures, please consult the Emergency Guide for Academic Buildings, available at the QR code shown or at the following link: <http://police.truman.edu/emergency-procedures/academic-buildings/>.

This six-minute video provides some basic information on how to react in the event there is an active shooter in your location: <https://youtu.be/k3TpzmchDz4>(formerly <http://police.truman.edu/emergency-procedures/active-shooter/active-shooter-preparedness-video/>).

Truman students, faculty, and staff can sign up for the TruAlert emergency text messaging service via TruView. TruAlert sends a text message to all enrolled cell phones in the event of an emergency at the University. To register, sign in to TruView and click on the “Everyday Tools” link under “Tools”. Then click on “Truman Tab Tools”. Click on the registration link “Update Emergency Text Messaging Information”. During a campus emergency, information will also be posted on the TruAlert website <http://trualert.truman.edu/>.

- Discrimination and Title IX

Truman State University, in compliance with applicable laws and recognizing its deeper commitment to equity, diversity, and inclusion which enhances accessibility and promotes excellence in all aspects of the Truman Experience, does not discriminate on the basis of age, color, disability, national origin, race, religion, retaliation, sex (including pregnancy), sexual orientation, or protected veteran status in its programs and activities, including employment, admissions, and educational programs and activities. Faculty and staff are considered “mandated reporters” and therefore are required to report potential violations of the University’s Anti-Discrimination Policies to the Institutional Compliance Officer.

Title IX prohibits sexual harassment, sexual assault, intimate partner violence, stalking and retaliation. Truman State University encourages individuals who believe they may have been impacted by sexual or gender-based discrimination to consult with the Title IX Coordinator who is available to speak in depth about the resources and options. The Title IX Coordinator is here to help. This is a collaborative process that seeks to empower reporting parties so that they may safely and comfortably access the University and its programs and activities. Many common questions and concerns regarding the reporting process are addressed here:

- FERPA

Education records are protected by the Family Education Right to Privacy Act (FERPA). As a result, course grades, assignments, advising records, etc. cannot be released to third parties without your permission. There are, however, several exceptions about which you should be aware. For example, education records can be disclosed to employees or offices at Truman who have an “educational need to know”. These employees and offices may include your academic advisor, the Institutional Compliance Officer, the Registrar’s Office, or Student Affairs depending on the type of information. For more information about FERPA, see <http://www.truman.edu/registrar/ferpa/>.

- Academic Honesty

Personal and scholarly integrity are expected of everyone in the class. Failure to live up to those responsibilities risks earning a failing grade on the assignment/examination, a failing grade for the course, and/or in serious cases expulsion for the academic program or University. The University policy on academic dishonesty as published in the Student Conduct Code and General/Graduate Catalog applies

(http://catalog.truman.edu/content.php?catoid=25&navoid=1518#Academic\_Dishonesty)

Please see <https://www.truman.edu/wp-content/uploads/2013/05/Academic-Integrity-Policy.pdf> for additional details.

- TurnItIn

Truman State University subscribes to TurnItIn via Brightspace. Papers and essay exams written for this course will be submitted through TurnItIn to ensure Academic Integrity is maintained. Your submissions are shared with the University and Global database of TurnItIn whereby the content of your submissions will be compared to other future submissions.

- Statement on Disruptive Behavior

“Behavior that persistently or flagrantly interferes with classroom activities is considered disruptive behavior and may be subject to disciplinary action. Such behavior inhibits other students’ ability to learn and instructor’s ability to teach. A student responsible for disruptive behavior may be asked to leave class pending discussion and resolution of the problem...” and may be reported to the Office of Citizenship and Community Standards. (Quotation from Washington State University).
